Claims 1-9 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-8 of U.S. Patent No. 2003/0122868. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because it is not seen that the re-wording of the claims alone constitutes unobviousness.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lomneth et al. in view of Adomako and Sagi taken together.

Lomneth discloses a margarine a water in oil emulsion that contains 30-65% soft fat and 35-70% hard fat. In embodiment 1 the aqueous phase is about 20% of the composition and the oil phase is 80% of the composition, column 28, lines 63-65. The hard fat is further stated to contain 32% to 50% SOS triglyceride. Embodiment 1 shows that the aqueous phase and the fat phase are emulsified together to form the final product. The claims appear to differ from the reference in the suggestion that at least 5 wt% of the hardstock fat is Allanblackia fat or Pentadesma fat. Each of Sagi and Adomako teaches that Allanblackia fat and Pentadesma fat are known edible fats that contain substantial amounts of SOS triglycerides. These references especially teach that these fats are used as cocoa butter substitutes. Given the formulation of Lomneth that identifies selected triglycerides that include SOS, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to formulate a triglyceride product with hardstock from Allanblackia fat and Pentadesma fat. It is appreciated that the particular amount of this hard fat is not shown in the reference, but to vary the amount of this fat according to the extent of cocoa butter characteristics desired in the product would have been an obvious way to modify the overall taste of the final product. The use of hardstock from Allanbalckia fat and Pentadesma fat is regarded to be an obvious substitute for an SOS triglyceride in a water in oil emulsion.
